

RECEIVED

MAR 10 1997

To: AAA
From: AAA Anthropology of Religion Interest Group

Annual Report

The AAA Anthropology of Religion Interest Group (ARIG) held its annual meeting during the AAA meeting in San Francisco in November 1996. The most significant issues addressed were initiatives to merge various groups into a section within the AAA. To that end, the following motion was adopted and approved by the membership:

"The ARIG steering committee is authorized to: select representatives from its membership to form a new organizing committee that would integrate ARIG, SOFAR and/or the new section organizing group; to endorse this body for forming an AAA section; and to (dis)approve any integration of groups forthcoming."

The new steering committee elected by the ARIG members during their business meeting are:

Michael Winkelman, Convenor
Stewart Guthrie
Benson Saler
Deborah Shepherd
Mark Gruber
Rebecca Lester

AAA Program activities are to be headed up by Stewart Guthrie
Communication and list-serve issues are to be handled by Deborah Shepherd

ARIG liaison to other religion interest organizations are to be handled by Guthrie, Shepherd and Winkelman; Guthrie and Lester were designated to be the representatives to Sarah Caldwell's group.

Membership in ARIG was 95 at the end of 1996

Submitted by:

Michael Winkelman, Convenor ARIG Steering Committee

RECEIVED

MAY 10 1963

The AAU, University of London, London, U.K.

Dear Sir,

The AAU is pleased to inform you that your application for membership in the AAU has been approved. The AAU is a non-profit organization which is concerned with the promotion of the study of the history of the world. The AAU is a member of the International Council for the History of the World.

The AAU is a non-profit organization which is concerned with the promotion of the study of the history of the world. The AAU is a member of the International Council for the History of the World.

The AAU is a non-profit organization which is concerned with the promotion of the study of the history of the world. The AAU is a member of the International Council for the History of the World.

Yours faithfully,
Secretary General
The AAU, University of London, London, U.K.

The AAU is a non-profit organization which is concerned with the promotion of the study of the history of the world. The AAU is a member of the International Council for the History of the World.

The AAU is a non-profit organization which is concerned with the promotion of the study of the history of the world. The AAU is a member of the International Council for the History of the World.

The AAU is a non-profit organization which is concerned with the promotion of the study of the history of the world. The AAU is a member of the International Council for the History of the World.

Yours faithfully,
Secretary General

The AAU is a non-profit organization which is concerned with the promotion of the study of the history of the world. The AAU is a member of the International Council for the History of the World.